Students from partner universities are invited

What is UU-A Student Summit?

'UU-A' is representing 'Utsunomiya University' and 'African universities' and an abbreviation for 'Programme for Developing Human Resource to Contribute to SDGs by Merging African Potential and Japanese Scientific Technology.' UU-A Student Summit is a student international academic conference that students from partner universities present their own research in relation to Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

In the modern international society, there are numerous cross-border global issues and many African countries are drastically developing various aspects, economy, society, education, etc. It is important to share ongoing research achievement bridging with the SDGs with not only students from African universities, also from Japan. Therefore, the main objective of this summit is to develop human resources who can contribute to the achievement of the SDGs through this summit.

In the UU-A Student Summit 2024, students who are from partner universities can get an opportunity to make a presentation about your research related to SDGs, so please feel free to apply.
